Climate Change: Tools from the Coastal Adaptation Workgroup

Please join us for a presentation by the NH Coastal Adaptation Workgroup. CAW's mission is to assist communities in the coastal watershed to prepare for the impact of extreme weather and long-term climate change.

CAW is made up of 24 federal, state and local agencies and organizations who provide resources and technical guidance to enhance readiness and resilience. Many of their techniques have applicability in project design, resource protection and impact reduction across the state.

Presenter

Steve Miller is the Coastal Training Program Coordinator for the Great Bay National Estuarine Research Reserve. He serves as co-chair for CAW along with Sherry Godlewski, NH DES, Air Resources Division, Air Quality Alerts and Action Days.
